Biography

Brandon Thompson is an attorney at Kelley Kronenberg, focusing his practice on health law litigation. He brings comprehensive experience in healthcare regulatory compliance, insurance appeals, and health services administration.

Prior to joining Kelley Kronenberg, Brandon worked as an associate attorney appealing wrongfully denied and delayed insurance claims through insurance carriers' internal appeals processes, utilizing federal regulations and state statutes to resolve claims and analyzing payer policies and managed care contracts to settle disputes. His experience includes serving as a legal extern for a major healthcare system's compliance services, where he researched statutory and regulatory requirements for drafting policies on information blocking and provider-based rules, and as a legal extern for legal services conducting research on clinical policy, contracts, licensure, compliance, and employment law. He has also worked as a legal intern drafting motions for summary judgment and conducting research on discovery matters. His healthcare background includes working as a service representative managing Medicare enrollment and benefits determination, as a patient access representative handling insurance verification and account management, and as a laboratory management intern implementing equipment to reduce adverse events.

Brandon earned his Bachelor of Science in Psychology with a minor in Asian Studies from the University of Florida. He received his Master of Science in Health Services Administration from the University of Central Florida and his Juris Doctor cum laude from the University of Florida Levin College of Law.
